Suppressing the Truth

Truth needs to be suppressed by those who must maintain control via falsehood. If the New World Order scheme was to kill us all by disease or by vaccination, then why not now? They've led the population-reduction agenda for so long, and it's the right time to unleash some well-kept secret bioweapon technology on an unsuspecting global population.

However, if there were such a master plan, they would have been implementing it by now. They could have done much more damage than this if it were their desire. Perhaps there are more subtle motives, motives to consolidate immense power.

All I can think of is that this is supposed to bring world economies to their knees and make us hand over healthcare responsibilities to a global authority. In the opening address of the Great Reset forum, a joint initiative of the World Economic Forum and the Prince of Wales, this purpose was confirmed: "The COVID-19 pandemic presents an opportunity to shape an economic recovery and the future direction of global relations, economies and priorities."

The U.S. government didn't cause COVID, yet we were to make reparations anyhow with stimulus checks that are a precursor to an allotted, national, fixed wage — the socialists' "universal basic income." The middle class receives minor compensation for the loss of potential productivity and it has made the poor richer, e.g. big-screen TVs. The money could've better been used to refund the losses of small business from the unnecessary mandatory shutdowns.

Prior to the global COVID-19 outbreak, the rise of nationalism had started to reshape global politics. Nationalism in political discourse had strengthened across the world, especially in the West through the successful rise of nationalist and populist political parties in Italy, Austria, Hungary, France, and Germany. Nationalist rhetoric had gone viral, from our recent president's "Make America Great Again" initiative to Britain's Brexit. The globalists' point: Forget about nationalism and think trendy globalism. Former President Trump repeatedly criticized the World Health Organization for being too "China-centric," and had announced his decision to leave the organization, rightfully claiming that it had caved to pressure from China "to mislead the world when the virus was first discovered by Chinese authorities" and that it's under the "total control" of China.

It's just as Ronald Reagan inadvertently prophesied: "Perhaps we need some outside universal threat to make us recognize this common bond. I occasionally think how quickly our differences worldwide would vanish if we were facing an alien threat from outside this world." That alien threat is the unnatural, unaccounted for, alien virus known as COVID-19.

I don't care if the FDA now approves the COVID vaccinations. I would freely accept the inoculation if and only if I wouldn't get sicker or die from it when I could get recoverably sick from the virus. I don't want to suffer any long-term side effects. Why would the government and social media need to suppress supposed "fake news" at all? Censorship only exacerbates the issue of trust. Doctors who have the same qualifications as those who say the vaccine is safe say the vaccine is unsafe. But, we are not supposed to listen to those doctors. It began with one jab, then two, and now it's continuous boosters. What do we expect when we believe everything our government tells us?

CORRECTION: Our article "Russia vs. Ukraine: Is It Our Fight?" (Feb. 14) inadvertently stated that during World War II, Japan was prompted by trade sanctions to "strike out at American military forces in Japan and the Philippines." Of course, it should have said Pearl Harbor and the Philippines.
